Independents Select Slate In Falls Twp.

LEVITTOWN, Sept. 24—The formation of an independent political party in Falls township, with three supervisor candidates in the November 3 election, was announced today by John H. Thomas, of 20 Palm lane, temporary chairman of the group.

Thomas would not identify the candidates, but said they live in Levittown, Fairless Hills and Burgess Manor. "The people in these three new sections of Falls township are young, and want the best men to represent them," Thomas said.

Seek Representation
"They want to be represented in the operation of the township, and not just be contacted at election time."

"Our candidates are young, and are young in their outlook. All three have positions of responsibility."

Thomas identified his organization as the Independents of Falls Township, and said that in two weeks the group has assembled 60 workers.

Groups Unite
"We are Republicans and Democrats, united in our desire for better representation of our sections," Thomas said.

Thomas is a former Republican committeeman. The Independents chairman said the Republican incumbent candidates Supervisors Clifford Watson, John Custer and Raymond Pope do not represent the new sections of the township, but are all of the Fallsington area. "We feel that our men are better qualified than either the Republican or Democratic candidates," Thomas said.

FALLS TOWNSHIP, Sept. 24—A Trenton man was injured and his car almost completely demolished in an accident yesterday morning at Route 13 and Mill Creek road. Driver in the car, A. L. Preston, 104 Falls street, Trenton, told police that he came out of Mill Creek road and swerved to avoid hitting a car at the intersection. Police said there was no other car at the scene when they arrived.

Preston's car hit the guard rail along the road, pulling out 40 feet of the fence, according to police. Preston was taken to Mercer Hospital, Trenton, where he was treated for cuts of the head. Police said he will be released today. They described his car as "practically a total loss."

According to Police Chief Franklin Kirby, Preston will be arrested on a charge of reckless driving. Patrolman Gilbert Custer investigated.

Lowering Sought To Aid Building In Township

MIDDLETOWN TWP., Sept. 24—An easing of road specifications and water and sewer ordinances will be proposed to Middletown township supervisors in an effort to encourage home builders, Raymond H. Secules, a member of the board of supervisors said last night.

Secules said the supervisors would not consider these measures until a final settlement had been reached on a zoning compromise already agreed to the Levitt firm.

The zoning compromise was agreed to by Secules and Russell Newbold, another supervisor. It calls for minimum 7000 foot lots on parts of the Levitt tract. Sven Nielsen, third member of the board, has refused to accept the compromise, demanding 7500 foot lots as the minimum.

Secules lashed out at what he called "obstructionists," who pretended to work in the interests of the township, but in reality, were causing more grief than help. He said the township's controversy with the Levitt firm had cost in the neighborhood of $500 in attorneys' fees, surveys and other costly items.

Hits
The Levitt organization has called the road specifications unreasonable and has opposed the township ordinance granting sole rights to the Middletown Township Sewer and Water Authority. Meanwhile it has refrained from building in Middletown township where the firm owns 1500 acres worth more than $3,000,000.

Secules stated that he was neither "pro-Levitt" nor "anti-Levitt," but simply intends to get the best bargain he can for the people of the township.

Follows Comment
His statement followed comment by Charles Wildman, secretary of the Middletown Township Improvement Association who said "a large number of residents feel that Newbold and Secules did not represent their feelings on the matter of 7000 square foot lots for the Levitt firm."

Wildman said that public sentiment of the zoning situation was shown at two public hearings during the last year. The assemblies were definite in their opposition of a lowering of the zoning requirements.

Hit-Run Suspect Is Picked Up By Trenton Police

MIDDLETOWN TWP., Sept. 24—Felix Gonzales, owner of a car which allegedly struck two automobiles Sunday at Route 281 and Pine street, was arrested by Trenton police early this morning on suspicion of hit-run driving. Police Chief Howard C. Shook, here, said today.

Chief Shook said he would pick up the prisoner in Trenton and return him to Middletown township for questioning. If it is determined that Gonzales was the driver of the car at the time of the accident, a formal charge of hit and run driving will be issued.

The automobile owned by Gonzales struck two automobiles while attempting to pass late Sunday afternoon. Following the accident, the automobile made no effort to stop, but continued on its way to Trenton. Another driver, Carl Scollony, of Philadelphia, chased the vehicle and jotted down the license number. A check by the Trenton police revealed that the car belonged to Gonzales. However, he was not apprehended until this morning when police closed in after a four-day search.

Scollony will be called from Philadelphia to testify whether or not Gonzales was the driver.

Civil Defense Unit In Morrisville To Get Set for Alert

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 24—Morrisville civil defense selection heads will meet at 8 tonight at borough hall, with Civil Defense Director Neal Nolan. They will plan for a state-wide alert scheduled for Oct. 10.

The bell and lights receiving station system of air-raid warning has been installed at Nolan's Washington street office and at the water works. They were tested on Tuesday by the Bell Telephone Company, which installed them.

Any factory or business may secure the system, Nolan said, by contacting the Civil Defense office in Doylestown. There is a charge for the system.

Nolan said that more help is needed in the civil defense work in Morrisville. "The situation is not too good," he declared. "We have a lot of residents helping with this important task, but we still need more, especially in clerical work."

Air Raid Warning Program Covers All Bucks County

HARRISBURG, Sept. 24—Bucks county is one of five Pennsylvania counties where a new air raid warning system has been installed by the state Council of Civil Defense.

The system, covering 185 locations, has been installed in Philadelphia, Delaware, Chester and Montgomery counties. Dr. Richard Gersttel, state Civil Defense Director, said that the new system will cut the time for attack warnings from 15 minutes to a matter of four or five seconds.

"Should the enemy strike," Gersttel said, "Thousands of lives will be saved by the new system."

The system gives a dual warning in the form of bells and lights at receiving stations in the area. It is being installed throughout the state by the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, under a contract issued by the state council.

Of this number there were 176 Republicans, 160 Democrats, eight no party and one independent. Yesterday was the last day of special sessions for the traveling registrars, who returned to Lower Bucks County three days this week at the request of the voters.

Voters who have not registered may still do so at the registration offices at the County Office Building in Doylestown until 4 p. m., Monday, Sept. 28.

Commissioners Must Appoint Park Board

BRISTOL TOWNSHIP, Sept. 24—The Bristol Township Zoning Board of Adjustment last night granted an exception to C. J. Langenfelder, Inc. of Baltimore, Md., to remove fill dirt from its 45-acre tract on Oxford Valley road, a residential zoned area, on several conditions.

One of the conditions is that "Walter Rittler shall be removed as zoning officer of the township and a successor appointed."

Chairman of the board John C. Packard and other members who met with him last night at his 69 Manor Circle home declined to explain why Rittler's discharge was a condition for the exception. Other members are J. Harry Smith and Mrs. Reba C. Goebig, both of Croydon.

Rittler was appointed zoning officer by the Township Commission last December when the zoning ordinance went in effect.

Park Commission
A further stipulation is that the Township Commissioners appoint a recreational and park commission of at least three members. Zoning Board members suggested that one member of the Planning Commission be appointed to the park commission together with representatives from each ward.

Duties of the park commission will be to investigate possibilities for park sites. The Zoning Board suggested that Silver Lake be checked for inclusion in an over all park plan.

The park commission will be obliged to submit a report to the Township Commission so that the latter may take action on a proposed program and deal with problems of financing it.

The park stipulation and a number of conditions which apply to the Langenfelder firm stem from a number of questions raised at a public meeting Monday in the Township Building by some 25 residents who protested granting of the exception. Most of the objectors wanted assurance that a park program would be carried out.

Pact Terms
An agreement had been reached between the Langenfelder firm and the Township Commission for sale of the tract to the township for recreational purposes only after the firm had removed the fill dirt it needed in its turnpike extension construction.

The following conditions for the exception which are binding on the Langenfelder firm were accepted by the firm in discussions between representatives of the firm and the Zoning Board, Packard said:

That Langenfelder shall execute a deed to Bristol Township to be held in escrow covering the 45-acre tract and that the firm shall register a restriction in its original deed limiting use of the land to park facilities of a non-commercial nature.

Also, the firm must take precautions to prevent safety hazards and remove them if they arise. The firm shall rough grade all unused land and remove debris before completing excavation and the excavation must be tapered off to a grade not

Sloan Hits LCA For Deferment

LEVITTOWN, Sept. 24—The recent action of the Levittown Civic Association directors deferring action on a passed motion to investigate the Bristol township commission on suspicion of enacting an ordinance at a closed meeting was criticized today by the author of the motion, Duke Sloan, of 313 Lakeside drive.

The Civic Association on Aug. 18 adopted Sloan's motion to set up a malfeasance committee to determine whether the "secret meeting" charges were true. In offering the motion, Sloan said he was informed that Ordinance 32, accepting dedication of Levittown streets in the township, was enacted July 15 at a meeting of which the public had no pre-knowledge and from which the press was excluded.

Early Frost Chills, But Holds No Omen

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 24—The weather's cold this week, but that doesn't predict a hard winter, A. E. Weather Bureau here, said this morning.

He said today will be warmer than yesterday, and that tomorrow the temperature should hit the 70's. The current cold wave came from the west and northwest with a high pressure area, White said. In Bordentown, N. J., as well as in Lower Bucks County, frost was reported.

"We have no indication, however, that there will be a cold winter," White stated, casting aside such omens as a late moon and early frost as "pure conjecture."

The Trenton Weather Bureau recorded a temperature varying from 46 to 64 degrees yesterday, while in Bristol the Rohm & Haas Co. Weather Observatory reported a range from 45 to 66 degrees. Last Sept. 24, Bristol had a maximum temperature of 75.

Tunnel Operation Underway at PRR Levittown Station

TULLYTOWN, Sept. 24—Tunneling operations in the construction of pedestrian underpass at the Pennsylvania Railroad Levittown-White, meteorologist of the U. S. Weather Bureau here, said this morning.

Prior to tunnelling operations, a pit for a walk-way was dug on the Levittown side and excavations on the Tullytown side of the tracks had to be completed for steps to the tunnel.

It is expected that work will be completed in mid-November. James McGraw Company, Philadelphia, is the contractor.

Tullytown Police Chief John Walterick said the construction of the tunnel was done as an extra safety measure. Pedestrians had previously used the long route over a bridge to cross the railroad. A hazard existed in that many persons walked over the rails in their impatience to get across even after the railroad completed a barricade paralleling the tracks.

Reports Heard, Activity For Retarded Tots

Jan Parks, corresponding secretary, advised that the association is a member of the United Service Federation and a budget of $4395 was approved by the Federation. All members were urged to aid in solicitation during the Federation drive which begins in November to insure success of the drive for all agencies.

Mrs. Elkin, who will be delegate at the national convention in Chicago, Ill., Oct. 15, 16, 17, told of the program outlined for delegates, which includes workshops, trips to schools, clinics and institutions for retarded children in the Chicago area; list of principal speakers, etc.

Jeannette Miller, educational chairman, reported on progress of the Doylestown Day Care Center. There are two sessions and 19 children attending. Miss Jean Dawson is teacher.

Plans for the summer day camp are now underway. The camp will be located in Central Bucks for one month and Lower Bucks for a month. Two counselors will be employed and will work the season at both camp establishments. Sites are now being investigated which must have a shelter building, lavatory facilities and playground. Equipment for the camp must be secured. The camp will operate five days a week from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

In the absence of Mrs. Edith Barr, institutional welfare chairman, Mrs. Elkin reported that this committee is hard at work on improvements of the state institutions. They are stressing better and more equipment and recreational facilities for the children.

Mrs. Jacobs, teacher of O. B. class at Doylestown school, reported that new playground equipment and three softball teams have been organized at Pennhurst.

Mrs. Lee R. Heisler, Lower Bucks County sector chairman, publicity chairman for Bucks County Chapter and member of the board of directors, has undertaken to write, edit and publish a chapter paper to be distributed to all members. The "Step-Up" is a publication advising the membership of the progress of efforts for retarded children within the chapter with state and national events of interest.

The PARC will adopt a new constitution at its next state convention Oct. 31 in Harrisburg. There are 26 chapters in the state. New constitution calls for a state board and regional boards. The southeastern region, which includes the Bucks County Chapter, will have as its representation, three delegates on the state board. Each chapter will be represented on the regional board. Members are urged to attend the State Convention in Harrisburg.

"Children Limited," National Association for Retarded Children newspaper now in publication, was distributed to sector chairmen for distribution to the membership. Subscription to help defray cost of publication and distribution is urged. The paper covers the national picture and strides made for retarded children. This issue has pictures and stories of the Southbury School in Connecticut, a state school which resembles a college campus and education is stressed.

Newly elected sector leaders, Mrs. Billie Miller, Central Bucks, and Mrs. Lee R. Heisler, Lower Bucks, were introduced to the group. Plans for the establishment of a Day Care Center in the Bristol area were reported by Mrs. Devon Smith. The Bristol School Board has reacted very favorably to the need which exists in this section for a

Capture May Solve County Robberies

BELVIDERE, N. J., Sept. 24 — The capture of two youths in Belvidere, N. J., recently spelled the solution to at least 20 burglaries extending over seven New Jersey and Pennsylvania counties — including Bucks—police report today. Loot valued at about $2000 was taken in the thefts.

The youths admitted breaking into garages and business firms in Bucks, Northampton, Warren, Monroe, Pike, Hunterdon and Sussex counties. The suspects have been identified as Terry Lee Craver, 18, of Nabors RD 2, and Kenneth Morgan, 21, of 326 Market st., Belvidere, N. J.

They now are at the Warren County Jail, undergoing questioning. Chief of Police Felix R. Gowan of Doylestown said this morning he would go to the Warren County Jail tomorrow to question the suspects concerning two garage robberies in or near Doylestown, which the suspects say they committed.

They could not remember the exact location of the Doylestown district burglaries when questioned by New Jersey State Police yesterday.

At a hearing yesterday the two suspects were committed to jail by Magistrate Charles Van Ness, Belvidere, for action of the Grand Jury, without bail.

The Bucks county authorities will lodge a detainer against the suspects, as well as detainees from other counties in which they are wanted.

They also have confessed to a service station robbery near Quakertown.

Bible Belt Stymies Horseracing, Bucks Borough Assn. Told Red Feather Drive

RIEGELSVILLE, Sept. 24—Seventy-one borough councilmen and officials at a dinner-meeting of the Bucks County Association of Boroughs were told by E. K. Hibshman, of State College, there will be no horse race betting and gambling in Pennsylvania so long as the "Bible Belt" exists and State Association Secretary Harold Alderfer warned them to hang on to home rule which is fast disappearing.

Hibshman, chief lobbyist for the Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs, said: "There will be no legalized gambling or betting at horse races in Pennsylvania so long as the 'Bible Belt' which includes the Pennsylvania Dutch counties, remains as powerful and influential as it now is."

Speaking to 71 borough officials, representing 14 of the 23 Bucks municipalities, Hibshman, said: "The boroughs have always had the finest cooperation from Bucks county's legislators."

"State Senator Edward B. Watson 'knows his way around' in Harrisburg and Assemblers Wilson L. Yeakel and Marvin V. Keller are both good legislators."

Hibshman, paying a compliment to the beauty of the Delaware River Valley in Bucks county, said: "There used to be a book, 'Old Township' which was written by a man named Harlow who live in Riegelsville and I often read and re-read his book."

The veteran lobbyist declared that legislation is not made by oratory but operates through committees which must accept the judgment of those who want it passed.

FSA Board Decides To Cast Lot With Red Feather Drive

FALLSINGTON, Sept. 24 — At its Executive committee meeting last Thursday the Board of Directors of the Friends Service Association agreed to cast its lot with the cooperative way of building social way of building social work agencies and meeting community need, giving final approval to entrance in the United Services Federation and Community Chest of Bucks County.

Paul Blanshard, Jr., chairman of the board and president of George School explained that the decision has come after three months of negotiating with the Community Chest professional staff and Admissions and Budget committees.

The current operating budget of the association, which manages the William Penn Center as a community center for all, is $17,750. It was pointed out at the meeting that the Community Chest appropriation would account for only part of this amount; but the hope was expressed that the balance of several thousand dollars could be realized thru the annual membership enlistment and voluntary contributions.

When asked for comments, Kent R. Larrabee, Executive Secretary of the Association, said, "Now that we are a Red Feather agency, it is of especial importance to us that the Community Chest drive go over the top with flying colors. Any cut-back in the Community Chest appropriation would severely limit our program of meeting the community's cultural and social needs. We are proud to be associated in working cooperation with ten other worthy agencies who are so selflessly dedicating their energies to filling the gaps in the area's social services—gaps which have been created by the tremendous growth and changes in Bucks County."

Survivors are three brothers: William and Michael Bradley, Patrick McDevitt, Bristol.
Rites will be conducted Saturday at nine a. m. from the William I. Murphy Est. funeral home, 1002 Radcliffe street, with high requiem mass at 10 a. m. in St. Mark's R. C. Church. Friends are invited to call tomorrow evening. Interment will be made in St. Mark's Cemetery.

Helping a New Student Adjust

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

IN practically every classroom this fall, there will be children whose families have moved to the present school district since last June. Some, of course will move again during the school year.

This means that these children have had to adapt themselves to new playmates and friends in the neighborhood, and to their new schoolmates.

Unaccustomed Ways

When a child, especially in the elementary grades, enters a new school, he must face unaccustomed school practices, teaching methods, and textbooks. Even if he enters a different school in the same city, this may be true to some extent. If he has come from another state, the change will be still greater.

If, for instance, he is in the third grade, he may be faced with more advanced work in reading, spelling, arithmetic, art or music than in the school he last attended. If he excelled before in one or all these subjects, he may easily catch up. But if he lagged, how much more difficult it will be for him.

Overcrowded Conditions

After moving, most children will enter an overcrowded schoolroom where they can't get as much individual attention as they need. The likelihood of their entering such a classroom has been increasing, especially in defense areas and other areas to which there has been big influx from rural areas. Consider, too, the emotional impact on the child coming into a classroom with so many strange children.

(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Fortunate for the moving child if he happens to have well-trained, highly skillful teachers. As you may know, the number of grade school teachers, with sub-standard training has been rapidly increasing because of the shortage of trained teachers. And this problem is growing worse each year.

How to Help Child

Parents who have moved to a new school district must already be aware of the new problems this move has brought their children. Consider the possible ways of making the adjustment easier.

First of all, try to find ways of helping him win friends among the children of his age in the new neighborhood. Attract these children to your premises, studying your child's manner with them, restraining him a little or encouraging him as need be, to make him more likable to the children. To these ends, your winning friends among the parents in the neighborhood should help. So should your participation in the local P. T. A., church and organizations like the Cubs, Brownies, Bluebirds, Scouts and Campfire Girls. Your child might join one of these groups and attend Sunday school and church.

Get acquainted with your child's teacher as soon as possible. Visit the classroom. Learn about his school progress and how best to further it at home. If he has difficulty keeping up with his learning at school, you might get some assistance from my bulletins on home helps in reading, spelling and arithmetic (to be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper).

Garden Notes

Flowering bulbs are the topic for discussion this week. These spring bloomers are hardly ever used as much as they could in our home gardens. Most people have a fear that such bulbs are difficult to grow or may be an expensive investment. To the contrary, we find that bulbs give such wonderful flowers for a reasonably low initial expenditure. There are three general types of bulbs. They are classified as hardy, half hardy and tender. These terms talk for themselves so no further explanation of them is necessary.

The use of bulbs are important. Where are you going to plant the bulbs?

The first place to be thought of is in the flower garden. By planting these in this area, an early perennial succession of bloom begins before other plants have begun to grow. One precaution is not to plant your bulbs in the immediate area of a matted root type of perennial such as shasta daisy.

Planting bulbs among the shrubs make a desirable setting for color. Dark green evergreens set off such delicate blossoms as golden yellow daffodils. Naturally, the low growing bulb plants should be planted toward the front with the taller plants in the background.

Rock garden settings filled with spring bulbs is an exquisite sight to view. Only low growing types should be used so as to stay in keeping with traditionally dwarf rock plants commonly found. Nooks and corners of the yard provide an ideal place for such bulbs as crocus, squills, and muscari. Great beauty is obtained when these are planted in clumps in acres of ground covers such as pachysandra or vinca. Again the dark green foliage sets off the beautiful flowers of various delightful colors.

When should these bulbs be planted? This can be answered generally in this way. Narcissus are usually planted from now up to ground freezing and no later than December 15th. Tulips and hyacinths can be planted easily any time up until mid December without damage. Small bulbs are suggested planted during October or early November.

When planting bulb make sure you follow the planting depths recommended by experts. Each kind of bulb has a definite recommended depth. Planting too deep sometimes retards blooming in the spring and prevents adequate growth. Diseases of hardy bulbs are relatively rare. However, when disease appears among the bulbs, the diseased members should be dug out and destroyed by burning. Certain diseases such as botrytis blight of tulips not only infects the bulb but it also infects the surrounding soil. This calls for the removing of the soil and the replacing of other disease free soil.

Now for the bulb types themselves: Galanthus nivalis — common name, snowdrop; height, 6-8"; description, small white flowers only conspicuous group plantings; blooming date, March.

Leucojum vernum — common name, snowflake; height, 1 foot; description, white small flowers tipped green; blooming date, early spring.

Narcissus varieties — jonquills or daffodils; height, 5-18 in.; description, daffodil shaped flowers of many shades depending on varieties; blooming date, 4-6 weeks in spring.

Crocus moesicus — common name, spring crocus; height, 4 in.; description, moderate sized upright cup-like flowers of many colors; blooming date, March.

Hyacinthus orientalis — common name, hyacinth; height, 8-10 in.; description, full spikes of flowers possessing a sweet fragrance. Many colors; blooming date, early to mid-spring.

Muscari botryoides — common name, grape hyacinth or blue bottles; height, 8 in.; description, blue flower resembling small bottles clustered at the top of a flower stalk; blooming date, April bloomer.

Scilla sibirica — common name, common squill; height, 6 in.; description, blue flowers; blooming date, April.

Tulipa varieties—common name, comoma tulips; height, 10 in-3 ft.; description, cup-like flowers of various colors atop long leafless stems; blooming date, April-May.

Eranthis hyemalis — common name, winter aconite; height, 4-6 in.; description, yellow flowers; blooming date, March blooming.

I would suggest that during the next few days, you decide where you want your spring color to be. After deciding this, work your ground well and incorporate a good organic fertilizer containing plenty of humus.

When buying, be sure to obtain reliable labeled bulbs. Cheap bulbs often times are diseased or are below grade size. Insist on grade I bulbs from disease free stock. This is important, if you expect the most out of them next spring. Remember that if you don't know your bulbs, know your dealer.

Until next week, here's to the best in gardening.

New Orange Juice In Powdered Form

WASHINGTON (INS) — The latest 20th century food to come out of laboratories of the U. S. Department of Agriculture is powdered orange juice.

Government research officials have announced development of a new process for making a powdered orange juice that stores well, retains vitamins, and tastes good when it's reconstituted with water. Officially, the experts say the powdered orange juice makes "an attractive, fresh-flavored beverage."

The tests that produced the new product were conducted in Albany, Calif. The chief of the government bureau there, Dr. G. E. Hilbert, explained that the new process is made possible by recent technical advances.

The orange juice is concentrated at a low temperature, and dried by vacuum process. After the drying, specially-prepared, stabilized natural orange oil is added to the powder as flavoring, since natural flavor essence is largely lost through drying.

To make juice, water is added to the powder. It dissolves right away and stays dispersed in the water. As a liquid the reconstituted juice looks like fresh orange juice, has a natural flavor and retains vitamins A and C.

The powdered orange juice is not yet available commercially. At the present time, it's being tested by the Army Quartermaster Corps.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
Showing mercy unto thousands of them that love me.—Ex. 20:6.
We cannot please him unless we are born again, born of the spirit, and not simply of the flesh. Faith assures us all the power we need to please him.

SAD TO RELATE

The little man behind the iron curtain cannot win. Consider the Estonian haberdasher who, being unable to meet the great demand for buttons at the state-operated shop he managed, proceeded to make some.
He stumbled across the fact that playing records could be melted down and remolded into the buttons he needed, and, as luck would have it, he also learned where there was a cache of used records of political speeches in Leningrad which he could buy reasonably.
All this the enterprising Estonian man did. His customers, who had long clamored for buttons, were delighted, his sales quota having been oversubscribed, and so were the political authorities responsible for making the records.
The Estonian, who knew a good thing when he saw it, began hiring more and more people to make buttons, and had visions of being promoted to the managerial post of a larger shop.
But there was one fatal flaw, and it wasn't long until an informer gave him away. The records, it happened, were of Stalin's speeches. As the Estonian tailor puts in his time in stir, he no doubt ponders the irony of making buttons out of the verbiage of a man who in later years is alleged to have lost most of his.

Potential Americans Are Hard Workers

By Ines Robb
WILD OAT FARM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Sept. 24.—(INS)—Jon wants to be a cowboy, which is par for the course for a normal ten-year-old boy in this country.
Most American boys of that age plan to ride and rope on the lone prairie as soon as they can run away from home and the truant officer.
The factor that sets Jon apart is that he has had only seven months' experience as an American boy. But this kid, who came here with his D. P. family such a short time ago, shows a precocious talent for Americanization.
But that is a generalization that covers the D. P.s in this neck of the woods. I have been fascinated by their old-fashioned industry and aptitude for hard work and touched by their longing to become Americanized.
Jon's mother helps me about the house from time to time, expending upon it an amount of elbow grease unknown in these perilous times. She is delicious at the prospect that Jon and his two sisters can be American citizens.
Gerta is so happy here that the days in the concentration camp seem like a dream. Her husband has a job in Flemington, her oldest daughter has a good position in New York, and the two younger children are in school in Flemington.
Jon has a paper route and the younger girl keeps the house neat and gets the family dinner on the days when Gerta adds to the family income by waxing, polishing and cooking in other households.
The sober, happy industry of this family, which so long to be incorporated into the fabric of America, is matched by that of the second D. P. family which occasionally gives me a helping hand with recalcitrant grass, trees, flowers and shrubs at Wild Oat.
Henry and his family have been in America a little more than two years. Already they own a respectable second-hand car, a television set and an electric washing machine—what a marvel!—bought by the combined labors of all.
Three younger children are in public schools, but Henry and the three oldest work from dawn until dark, planning, when the time comes to pool their funds and buy a little farm of their own, such as they had in the old world before war and concentration camps were their lot.
The neighbors, seeing the industry of Henry and his brood, have been good to them. There was a time when they needed a steady hand in the new world. I am sorry to say that Henry's first American employer was a parsimonious man.
Their first summer in America Henry's 15-year-old boy, Will, did a man's labors in the fields for three months on the understanding that he would earn enough to buy an outfit in which he could walk proudly into the Flemington high school.
At the end of that hard summer's work, Will was handed a $5 bill for

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The bland astonishment with which top Pentagon generals reacted when Senator Joseph R. McCarthy put the finger on an assorted collection of comrades still clinging to the Army payroll, was amusing. It likewise was important, however, as a demonstration of how naive the big brass can be in the facts of life about security.

Every employee, every serviceman, they explained profoundly, must take a solemn oath that he or she was not a member of the Communist party, so McCarthy must have been wrong.

No one denies the solemn oaths nor questions the truth of them. It so happens, however, that those oaths were made possible by a 1940 Communist party edict authorizing all members to withdraw from the party for whatever period

LEWIS, JR. might be necessary, to take civilian or service jobs in the Armed Forces.

And the generals had that information available as such, plus an abundance of first-hand testimony to support it. They weren't familiar with their own intelligence files.

For instance, several months ago the Senate Internal Security subcommittee heard testimony from a University of Chicago professor named Donald Horton. He told Chairman William Jenner he had been a full-fledged Communist party member until 1943, at which time he withdrew to accept an assignment with the War Department.

Horton testified that he has never rejoined the party since the war, but he opened himself up to a barrage of skeptical questioning when he refused to name other members of the two Communist cells to which, by his own admission, he once belonged.

Horton's testimony was turned over to military intelligence by the committee several months ago. But if the generals were aware of it at the time, they must have forgotten it, in view of their astonishment when McCarthy began asking his questions.
Another case in point involves Herman Landau, likewise a professor at the University of Chicago, who ducked the $64 question when Jenner had him on the stand. His background also supports McCarthy's contention that the military was somewhat less than efficient in keeping Communists at bay.

Landau holds a Ph.D. from the University of Pittsburgh and was considered a good bargain when the Army hired him in 1941. He worked at the Pentagon as a statistician for the Army until 1947, including a hitch at the highly secret ordnance research center at Aberdeen, Md. Asked by Jenner if he was a Communist then or now, Landau reached for the familiar Fifth Amendment refuge and refused to talk.

His testimony has been available to military intelligence for many months, but it, too, apparently has made no impression on any of the brass.

The Internal Security subcommittee has published twelve reports on subversive influences in the educational process. Reading them through, you would be surprised at the number of professors brought in for questioning who have Communist connections but never had any trouble getting jobs in the military service along with the necessary draft deferments.

Of this entire group, Sidney J. Socolar, of the University of Chicago, won the prize for gall. He testified that he was engaged in wartime radiation research and said, "I had access to classified information that was intended for use by government agencies." Then in practically the next breath he declined on constitutional grounds to say whether he was a Communist during the war or is one now.

Jenner's subcommittee concentrated on professors who had worked on military projects, in order to lay the groundwork for investigations into the question of who hired them in the first place. McCarthy concentrated on comrades still on the payroll, but both he and Jenner have encountered a paper curtain that has to be pierced if the Eisenhower Administration is going to fulfill its pledge of a housecleaning.

Under current regulations, it is illegal to disclose who passed on the loyalty of past or present employees of the Armed Services or non-military Federal agencies, even the non-talking professors. Until we find out who pulls these characters onto the payroll, and then protects them by testifying favorably in loyalty proceedings, we aren't going to make much headway. The regulations will have to be altered or rescinded.

Your Birthday
by STELLA

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24 — Born on this day of the incoming sign, Libra, you are ruled by Venus, the Goddess of Beauty and have a great capacity for justice and statesmanship. You seem to sense, instinctively, what needs to be done and then have the ability to go about doing it, calmly, efficiently and graciously. You have a forceful and keen mind, yet not an aggressive one. You men often wait a long time before letting others know what your intentions are. Sometimes you say nothing until you are ready to act. Then your actions come as a great surprise to all those who do not suspect what your objective is.
You are a born executive and you know how to enlist others to do the detail work which you, personally, dislike. You are sincere, honest and sometimes even a little too frank, in speaking your mind. You may start something, but you know, equally well, how to finish it! With all this positiveness in your nature, there is another side which is more negative and even open to outside influence.
Your emotions are so strong and deep that you can be often persuaded, even against your better judgment, by those you love. Your ties of home and family mean a great deal to you and you will make any kind of personal sacrifice to give them every thing near and dear to their hearts. You are an over-indulgent parent and must guard against being an "easy mark" where discipline is concerned. You women have one habit you must control: Never gossip! To start is fatal, for it could become a real vice!
To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Friday, September 25
LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Memory can betray you on an important matter. Write down all the facts so you will not err.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Think before you set. Hastily made decisions will only lead to changes later on. Avoid this error.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Make sure that your generosity is not abused. Do good, but do it where one is worthy of it.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Tact

will do more than force today. In projecting your ideas, be diplomatic about it for success.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Look carefully before you leap into any new business venture. Facts, not promises, are important.
PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) — Take things slowly and use care in all important detail or there is a large margin for error today.
ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20) — Don't start anything new. First, clear up the job you have already in the works. Conclude it successfully.
TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — Save, by buying now something you need or want. There are excellent bargains. Just look for them.
GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Not a good day for romance, so don't expect too much. Be diplomatic, to avoid any misunderstanding.
CANCER (June 22-July 23) — If a pet scheme is vetoed by someone in authority, be philosophical about it. Wait a while longer, then try.
LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — This is a good day for all your efforts. You could win big money and pleasure, with a touch of romance.
VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Emotions must be kept well under control if you are to achieve what you want. Discipline yourself carefully.

He'll Get By

(By "The Stroller")

A little fellow visiting relatives in Halmerville was delighted a few days ago when his aunt asked him to go to a nearby store to purchase a 5c box of chicklets, telling the lad he could keep the change from the quarter she handed him.
Soon he was back, blithely "bouncing" a yo-yo.
"I didn't have enough money for the chicklets," he advised his aunt. "The yo-yo cost a quarter."

SPECTACULAR MIDWAY MEET MRS. AMERICA EVERY NITE "SHOWTIME REVUE" On Stage DANCING WATERS "DEVILLE" AERIAL ACTS

Today's Quiet Moment

By William B. Derr, Jr., Pastor Pilgrim Holiness Church Levittown THE CROSS IN PRAYER

REPENTANCE "For Godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation." II Cor. 7:10.

The bedrock of genuine salvation is repentance. It is quite necessary that we "repent and turn to God."

In the mouth of three witnesses repentance is established — John the Baptist, Jesus Christ, and the Apostle Paul clearly states that repentance is an indispensable condition of entering into the Kingdom of God.

My friend, God loves you and wants to redeem your soul from a burning devil hell, but you must repent, "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish."

God's great, benevolent heart has wept bitter-tears of blood, as it were, over you — He is this moment putting His loving arms about you and if you would come humbly, repentantly to His feet and confess your sins; seek His pardon, He will save you. The moment you truly repent you have the right to appropriate the promised "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

Beauty Lessons for Co-Eds

THE COLLEGE GIRL applies make-up so that it looks natural. Eye shadows are fine for evening. Eyebrow pencil should be used lightly.

By HELEN FOLLETT

BACK to school! In the flurry of preparation, let us hope that the college girl hasn't forgotten the most important thing of all — her own beauty.

Major in Loveliness

She wants to major in loveliness, be the belle of the campus. To do that, she must have the proper good-looks equipment, the right cosmetics.

With an ample supply, she need not go shopping for toiletries until winter vacation comes and then, of course, she will have to take note of what is lacking in the good-looks kit and replace the necessary items.

She must have a carefully planned routine to preserve and enhance the fresh bloom of youth. The basic requirement, of course, is a clean skin. No matter how late the hour, how weary she may be, she must not go to bed with a dirty face.

For Oily Skin

Sometimes, if the skin is oily, a girl may fancy that she should not use creams. There are emollients compounded especially for shiny noses and foreheads. These whisk away whatever oil may remain after a soapy washing.

These creams are the super-cleansing agents. There are deep-drying impurities, more than one may imagine. Dust that gets in the pores can only be removed by a penetrating cream.

Before Dinner

Before dinner, there should be a creamy cleansing. Follow it with a refreshing lotion. Then, one can apply a light foundation which will form a complexion veil.

Even young beauty questers require nourishing night creams to keep the complexion in perfect form. Apply lightly, friction well, then spread on more. The flesh will lap it up.

For evening, a bit of eye shadow helps to make the feminine countenance vivid and glamorous. While blue has been the favorite, there is a run now on delicate green tints. And, of course, an eyebrow pencil is useful if eyebrows are not naturally dark.

Entire Effects of Injury Sometimes Not Apparent

By DR. JAMES N. ROEBUCK

Regardless of how minor an injury may seem, the after-effects can become quite serious. Blows, falls, twists, or bumps are the types of injuries which do the most unsuspecting damage. When the bruise heals and the pain subsides, one ordinarily forgets the past injury.

The spine acts as a shock absorber to the body. If the vertebrae are twisted and the tendons dented in. No amount of paint and polish applied would remove the dents or straighten out the bent frame. The framework of the human body is not held together nearly as well as that of a car, yet it is subject to as much injury and misalignment.

The doctor of Chiropractic locates and corrects misalignments which disturb function or cause disease. This is the twenty-third of a series of Chiropractic educational advertisements appearing in this paper each Thursday through the courtesy of Dr. James N. Cattle Test Plan To Be Resumed

HARRISBURG — Resumption of testing and the payment of indemnities under the Pennsylvania livestock health program for control and eradication of tuberculosis and brucellosis in cattle was announced by Miles Horst, State Secretary of Agriculture.

The program had stopped temporarily in mid-April when it became apparent that Federal indemnity funds to help pay farmers for animals that showed positive reaction to blood tests, would be exhausted before June 30. Funds for State indemnity payments were available for the full period, he explained.

Testing is to be resumed gradually, starting with disposal of all reactors now held on farms, and continuing other phases of the program as soon as possible. Secretary Horst advised all field veterinarians of the Department and all practicing veterinarians in the State.

Owners of reactors will receive State and Federal indemnities based on the amounts previously paid, he added. The maximum of Federal payments per head of cattle is $25 for unregistered animals and $50 for registered or purebred cattle. State payments are as high as $32.50 and $50 for unregistered and registered stock, respectively, he explained.

Buying Dishes Should Be Fun, Like Buying Hats

NEW YORK, (INS)—Buy your dinnerware as you would a hat, madam — for looks.

That's the advice of a noted dinnerware designer, Don Schreckengost, who claims modern dishes have much in common with modern millinery. Schreckengost says you can buy either a new hat or a new dinnerware set these days for $4.95, and still get plenty of style for your money.

"Dinnerware," he adds, "is one of the few homefurnishings items that puts a little fun into housework."

But most women, Schreckengost says, haven't realized the change in dinnerware habits. He pointed out that grandmother's dinnerware was limited to two vast sets, one for everyday and one for Sunday dinner.

Nowadays, however, a woman can put one set of gay plates on the breakfast table, whip out another set for luncheon bridge, mix ovenware and dishes on the dinner table, and serve TV buffet from tray sets.

In spite of this, Schreckengost laments, too many women still figure they have to spend a lot of money on one fancy set of china. "Why not buy dinnerware for looks, like a hat, and throw it away a few seasons later when a new style catches your eye?"

Kitchen Food Freezers Become 'Must' in Nation

NEW YORK, (INS)—Food freezers are on their way to becoming a "must" item in the kitchen.

At the recent furniture market in Chicago, and again at the Housewares show in Atlantic City, food freezers and gadgets aimed at home freezing of foods attracted plenty of attention.

One reason was that there were more freezers, better-looking ones and a wide variety of freezer aids. The other reason — as reported by dealers — was that women are becoming more and more freezer conscious.

Some freezer industry spokesmen already are predicting a freezer in every home by 1960. This may be optimistic, but there will definitely be many, many more freezers in U. S. homes before the decade is over.

Some of the new freezer models shown in Chicago included upright models with color trim, one little home freezer about the size of a modern washer or dryer which had a work-surface top at regular counter level, and big freezers of the chest type which featured built-in shelves and easy-to-reach compartments.

With a variety of models to choose from, housewives may have a tough time deciding just which freezer would be right for their home.

The first question to be answered is: How much space do you have available for a freezer?

If you live in a small apartment with limited kitchen space, you can skip any idea of getting a mammoth freezer. You'll have to shop for one of the small models, probably four cubic foot capacity at the most, which will hold a reasonable amount of food but not a seasons supply.

As a matter of fact, the woman with limited space may find her best bet is one of those refrigerator-freezer combinations now being made by most major appliance concerns. This would give you some freezer space right in the refrigerator.

If space is no problem, the type of freezer to get depends on your individual family needs. You'll have to consider the number of people in the family and how many times you eat at home, how often you entertain, whether you have your own garden or buy all your food, and just how much food you want to store.

Just one cubic foot of freezer space will hold 70 average packages of commercially-frozen foods.

State Residents Honor Trapper

HARRISBURG—Henry W. Shoemaker, President of the Pennsylvania Folklore Society, State Museum, Harrisburg, today said residents of the Juniata Valley are unanimous in declaring that the last great Pennsylvania trapper was John P. Swoope who died about 20 years ago.

"In the annual report of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture for 1896 trapper Swoope gives an account of his activities and the large amounts he collected from the State in bounties, and he said, he sent in so many scalps that it was feared that he was manufacturing them himself and the rules were changed so that the entire hide would have to be submitted to the Game Department in Harrisburg before the bounty was paid," Shoemaker said.

Tea Sneaking Up As Favored Drink?

NEW YORK, (INS)—Tea may be sneaking up on coffee for the title of America's favorite drink. A former supervising U. S. tea examiner,

Charles F. Hutchinson, recently predicted that in 15 years, America will become a tea drinking nation. Hutchinson based his prediction in figures indicating a six per cent increase in retail sales of tea last year and a 12 per cent increase in tea imports. Hutchinson said Americans in 1952 drank at least one billion more cups of tea than they did in 1951. Statistics also indicating an upswing in tea drinking have been issued by the Tea Council of the U. S., which says 2,200,000 new teapots go into American homes each year. The Tea Council says these are sturdy earthenware pots, excellent for brewing tea. Incidentally, the rules for making tea are as follows: fresh tap water, brought to a full, rolling boil, a warm teapot, a teaspoon of loose tea or a tea bag for every cup wanted, plus one for the pot. Brew the tea in the teapot not less than three minutes and not more than five minutes.

Jellied Consomme Tongue Salad
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 can (1½ cups) condensed beef consomme
2 to 4 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup diced tongue (smoked) canned or cured)

½ cup minced cucumber
2 tablespoons sliced, stuffed olives.
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
Soften gelatin in cold water; then set container of gelatin in pan of boiling water until gelatin is dissolved. Combine gelatin, consomme and lemon juice; chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in remaining ingredients. Rinse a 1-quart mold or loaf pan with cold water (for decoration, arrange slices of tongue in bottom of mold so they form a pattern on top of jellied salad); pour in salad. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve on crisp greens, 4 servings.

Consomme Chicken Salad: Follow recipe for Consomme Tongue Salad, except use ½ cup diced, cooked chicken instead of tongue. And use the 4 tablespoons lemon juice.

Check Play Yard For Any Hazards

By Francis Vannoy
Home Economics
Extension Representative

Take time now to check the outdoor play yard for any hazards to your children's safety.

If your children are under five,
plan for a suitable fence around the play area. That is one of the first safety precautions to consider.
Be sure the fence will restrain a child under three years of age. To a child older than three, the fence can be a means of telling him how far he can go. You can reason with many children three years and older, and they can take the responsibility for remaining within bounds.

Many anxious moments and serious accidents can be prevented when you have a fenced-in area where children can play safely. In cities and towns traffic presents the greatest hazard to the safety of children. In the country children may wander into the woods or along streams. Barns and stock lots also are places of danger for tiny tots.

tie than anything else," who belonged to the school watchman Chester Kellett.

Teddy was an unofficial assistant watchman and when he stepped into the freshly poured cement sometime ago, Kellett attempted to smooth out the tracks. He was dissuaded from this by school officials with "Don't you dare take away those tracks. The dog helped around here as much as anyone."

Hectic Days
Though early opening days were hectic because of late registrations, breakdown of two school buses, and overcrowded classrooms when late registrants were hastily assigned to classes, the path is slowly being smoothed, Darbie said.

He said he hoped that full-day sessions will be started in about three weeks when the classrooms will have been completed. The remainder of the building containing auditorium, shops, home economics rooms and music rooms may be completed next March at the earliest, Darbie said.

The school's intricate electrical and inter-communication system has not been completed so Darbie signals class changes every 39 minutes by lustily swinging a cow bell.

The new modern high school with its 500-foot-long corridor is only a part answer to the need for school facilities in this area, Darbie said.
The school will have a capacity for 850 pupils when it is finished, "but we could put 990 in right now."

Jr. High
Already under consideration is a new junior high school to be situated on the same 212-acre school property where the new high school is nearing completion. Darbie pointed out the tract is reportedly the largest public school campus in the country, with a mile frontage on Neshaminy Creek.

The proposed junior high school will accommodate about 900 pupils.
Darbie said the anticipated enrollment for grades 7 through 12 six years from now will be 1600. This doesn't take into consideration new families that may move into the area.

"These schools are something we've needed for a quarter of a century," Darbie declared. "Much has been done, but much remains to be done."

The new high school is to be amortized in 40 years.

Republican" until 1908, when he succeeded Elmer E. Funk as Deputy Clerk of Quarter Sessions Court,
Bucks County, under the late Allen
B. Eckert.

In 1912 he was appointed Deputy Register of Wills, under the late Oscar O. Bean, who was then the Register of Wills. Mr. Clayton also served a term as Deputy under Dr.
J. I. Cawley, of Springtown. In 1919, he was elected County Treasurer, and served four years in that office. He was also Deputy County Treasurer during the succeeding terms of W. H. Murphy of Bristol; Henry S. Johnson, Richland township; Leidy M. Landis, Plumstead township and Edward Biester, Bensalem township.

During his entire residence in Doylestown, Mr. Clayton was active in local and county affairs. At one time, he represented the Third Ward of Doylestown as a member of the Borough Council. On the death of George H. Miller some years ago, Mr. Clayton was elected President of the Borough Council.

From the age of 21, until the year 1929, Clayton was secretary of the Bucks County Republican Committee. He resigned this position upon his election as Chairman of the committee. He succeeded President Judge Hiram H. Keller.

As Republican County chairman, he was a loyal and staunch supporter of his party's principles. He was looked upon by the entire community as one of the top organizers in the county. Mr. Clayton was to have presided at a meeting of the Republican County Committee Monday night, but the meeting has been cancelled because of his death.

In addition to his political activities, Mr. Clayton was also a member of many fraternal organizations.

He was secretary of Doylestown Lodge No. 245, F. & A. M., for many years. He belonged to many other fraternal orders in Doylestown.
Mr. Clayton is survived by his wife, the former Carrie T. Wilson of Doylestown; and one son, Winfield, of Philadelphia. Other survivors are three brothers, J. Russell of Bryn Athyn, Fred A. of Lansdale and S. Raymond of Philadelphia; and one sister, Mrs. Eli Buch-man, Newtown.
Mr. Clayton was a member of the Methodist Church of Doylestown.
Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. The viewing will be Sunday night after 7, at the Reed Funeral Home, W. Court street.

Housewife Hints On Home-Making

Question: How can I get a smooth edge on a panel of fir plywood?

Answer: First paint the edges of the surface with a prime coat. Then mix spackle to the consistency of heavy cream and brush it thoroughly into the end grain. Let it dry, sand carefully and the finish paint job will conceal the end grain completely.

Q. How can I install plywood paneling over masonry or concrete walls in the basement?

A. The key is wooden furring or nailing strips to which the plywood is nailed. A new gimmick has come on the market that makes a previously tough job very simple. It's called an anchor nail that is glued to the masonry surface and the furring strip is hammered right onto the nails. They are called Gem-Co Anchor Nails and they are bonded to the surface with Tuff-Bond general purpose adhesive. Both products can be obtained at most hardware stores.

Q. What is a good base for an asphalt tile floor?

A. One of the best is sanded grade fir plywood which can be laid over a rough lumber sub-floor or nailed to furring strips over a concrete floor. Plywood provides that smooth solid base required for a tile floor and it forms a good bond with the adhesives recommended by the tile manufacturers.

River Bridges Break Record For Traffic

PALMYRA, Sept. 24—Traffic and revenue records were broken on the Burlington-Bristol and Tacony-Palmyra bridges for 58th consecutive month, during August.

Fred C. Norcross, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the Burlington County Bridge Commission, which operates both spans, reported the bridges had revenues of $382,564.42 during August, or 16.31 per cent over the same month a year ago.

He pointed out that the continued increase in traffic and revenue were due mainly to the reduction of tolls on both spans. Shortly after the commission assumed operation of the bridges, it lowered the tolls from 35 and 30 cents to 25 cents.

Revenues on the Burlington-Bristol bridge for the first eight months of this year amounted to $458,346.42, an increase of $110,139.39 over the same period last year. The span's toll revenue for 1953 was $1,790,000, compared with $1,680,000 in 1952.

Oil Leads In Oil Industry

HARRISBURG — Up to the middle of the 1890's, Pennsylvania, the first area in the world to market oil in commercial quantities, had produced some 90 percent of all United States petroleum.

The highest production of the State's wells was the 31,424,000 barrels produced in 1891. The lowest occurred in 1918, when the State's output of Pennsylvania grade crude oil had declined to 7,408,000 barrels. As of that date this state's oil wells, the oldest in the world, seemed almost exhausted, but Pennsylvania's producers became the pioneers in methods of what is now called "secondary extraction".

Secondary extraction, as practiced in Pennsylvania, meant the pumping of water into the oil sands, thus forcing the oil through the sands so that its extraction again became possible. As a result of this process, the present rate of production of Pennsylvania grade crude has risen to approximately 11,300,000 barrels of premium oil every year.

Falls Cause Most Accidental Deaths

HARRISBURG—Reports of the U. S. Bureau of Vital Statistics show that the two most dangerous ages for men, so far as accidents are concerned, are from 20 to 24, where automobile fatalities reach their peak, and from 60 to 64, although the ages from 55 to 69 are also extremely dangerous ones for men.

In the latest year for which a complete record is available (1949) the number of total falls exceeded the number of motor vehicle accidents in Pennsylvania and provided the principal cause of accidental death. In that year, deaths by accidental falls were 1,815, compared with 1,790 deaths by motor vehicle accidents, and 18 times more deaths than accidents caused by firearms. Falls were the only types of accidents in which women exceeded men in the number of their fatalities.

Pennsylvania women are less than half as likely to experience fatal accidents as men. Their most dangerous age is extremely late in life. The years from 75 to 84, the State Planning Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce points out, usually record their highest number of accidental fatalities.

The greatest disparity in accidental deaths by age groups in the early years, occur, however, at ages 20 to 29, during which period often six and a half times as many men as women meet with fatal mishaps. In that age group, automobile fatalities to men are usually the most serious single cause of accidental death and frequently are seven times as great for men as for women.

Some of the most feared causes of accidental death, the record shows, are among the least frequent. In the last year for which complete records are available, drowned bolt from the sky.

Speedometers Often Wrong

Many speedometers are not nearly as accurate as motorists believe them to be, warns Keystone Automobile Club.

In fact, says Samuel T. Millikan, Club service manager, two out of three speedometers were found to be giving wrong readings in cars recently tested by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

"Of the 53 cars tested," he declared, "only 19 had speedometer readings which generally were correct. Six speedometers registered higher speeds than those being traveled, while 28 showed readings lower than actual speeds. The motorists, selected as 'average owners', reported later that they had not been aware of the defective instruments. In a few cases, automobiles whose speedometers registered 57 to 60 miles an hour actually were traveling at 75 miles an hour.

"The 28 cars with speedometers showing below actual readings were off an average of 12 per cent for speeds slower than 50 miles an hour and off an average of 9 per cent for speeds greater than 50 miles an hour.

"The implications are obvious, of course. If a car's speedometer is off the operator may be arrested for speeding when he honestly believes he is driving at a legal rate. And he really has no recourse; ignorance of the fact that his speedometer is faulty does not excuse him.

"Speedometers should be checked for accuracy at regular and frequent intervals to insure peace of mind and legal speeds."

BAKED VEGETABLES
 Some vegetables suitable for baking are onions, beets, squash, carrots, corn in husks, stuffed peppers, eggplant, and of course, the potato. To bake any one of these vegetables, heat your oven to 350 degrees. Place the vegetables on the grate or in a baking pan. If you're baking them in the skin such as carrots or corn in husks, season them with butter and salt and pepper when you serve them. Otherwise, add the seasoning before baking.

4 Games Scheduled For This Weekend

The Lower Bucks County Conference will be in full swing this weekend as four games are scheduled. Games will be played at Langhorne, Morrisville, Newtown, and Southampton. The latter two are Saturday afternoon tilts.

Tomorrow afternoon, Delhaas will travel to Langhorne to play the defending champion, Neshaminy High. Both Delhaas and Neshaminy won their opening tilts.

Neshaminy, with Don Cameron and Glenn Kauffman, doing fine work, won over Pennsbury High, 24-20, while Delhaas registered a 20-7 win over Council Rock.

On the strength of their opening game appearance, Neshaminy appears to be favored over the Tigers. Coach Harry Franks has a strong line and a fast backfield which will Field, Morrisville. Kickoff will take place at 8 o'clock.

Bristol High was at its best last week as it topped Hatboro High, 13-0, to make its season record 1 and 1. The Warriors lost to Southerton High in their first game. Pennsbury's opener was against Neshaminy which it lost.

Coach John Antoni was satisfied with the showing his proteges made in their first league game but still feels that the boys need polishing. During the practice sessions this week, Coach Antoni stressed more blocking for his runners.

Coach Antoni intends to start Dick Lawrence and Ron Strine at the end positions, Jerry Stein and Don Ritter as tackles, Ed Huett and Dick Glover as guards and Eddie DeKoy at center. His backfield will be composed of Bob White, Joe Gleason, Freddie Santa-Maria and Bob Morris.

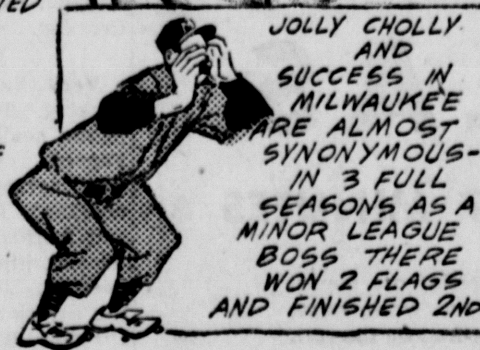

Bristol High will be on the road again tomorrow night, meeting Pennsbury High under the newly installed lights at the Robert Morris may break loose at any time. This is Gail's first season of football.

Wayne Bloodgood, Bob Francis, Bobby Rago, Frank Manzo, Bill Harbison, Jim Potena, and Russ Johnson will be the Bristol forward wall.

Coach Jim Egli, of the Falcons, has a big backfield ace in Mike Baldovski. Baldovski is the powerhouse on the line plays with Mickey Bray being the punter and speed of the backfield. This pair will present the Pennsbury threat to the Bristol team.

Bensalem Township, with a 1 and 1 record, is the favorite over the Council Rock team at Newtown on Saturday. Kickoff will take place at 2 o'clock.

Coach Marlon VanHorn's team sprung a surprise last when it handed Central Bucks a 14-12 defeat.

Dark Horse!
Although it is still quite early to make predictions on the outcome of the Lower Bucks loop, there is a strong possibility that the Owls will be the dark horse. Coach VanHorn has practically his entire team back from last season and this experience counted against Central Bucks.

Coach VanHorn may use Jim Bristow and Bobby Frantz as his wingmen. His tackles will be Norm Berger and Bob Vansant; guards, Dick Scott and Lou Bencardino; center, Frank Harper. The backfield will have Harvey Crowthers, Harry Schurr, Al Parker, and Charlie Sciolli with Bill Daley and Mike Sciolli due for plenty of action.

Coach Dominick Sagolla will use Joe Mulhern, Bob Teschner, Earl Johnson, and Cecil Morris as his starting backfield against the Owls.

Poor Blocking
Council Rock did poor blocking against Delhaas which helped to account for its defeat. Coach Sagolla had the Indians practicing all week, especially on the points of offensive blocking.

Fresh from a triumph over Jenkintown, the Morrisville Bulldogs will play Southampton on the latter's field Saturday at 2 o'clock.

Morrisville lost to Upper Merion in its opener and then bounced back to trim Jenkintown. Coach Gordon Davies expects to take over the Greyhounds.

Southampton has Claude Lodge back into the fold as football coach. Lodge had quit the gridiron sport last season but came back this season to direct the squad. It will be the first game of the season for Southampton.

Jr. Warriors Get Ready For 5-Game Slate

Thirty candidates for the Bristol Junior High football squad are reporting to Coach Joseph Sagolla daily on the high school gridiron.

The Junior Warriors are preparing for a five-game schedule, including Neshaminy, Council Rock, Pennsbury, Morrisville, and George School.

The nucleus of the team will be eight returning players from last season. This group is led by big "Bobby" Liberatore and Art Mancuso. Liberatore's passing set up most of the Junior High's scores last season, while Mancuso, in his fullback post, hit the opposing lines for nice gains.

Returnees
The other returnees are Walt Binkley, Bill Claus, Harold Saxton, Joe Caucci, Anthony Lomma, and Sam D'Alfonso.

Other candidates expected to be in line for starting positions are: Albert Van Wright, Ray Rees, Andy Perseponko, Franny Della, Jim Daniels, and Ronny Murray.

Other promising candidates are: Johnny Girotti, Bill Hilbert, John Sabol, Robert Gosline, William Gallagher, Anthony Angelaccio, and Dominic Rago.

Up from the Bristol Borough elementary program are: Freddie Straffe, Fred Williams, Joe Curley, Joe Antonelli, Dan Mucce, Anthony Centofante, John Rich, Anthony Borinice, Melvin Tyrrell, Mike Petrucci, and Anthony Stephanoni.

Moves to Varsity
Eddie Jones who played as an 8th grade regular last season and is still eligible for junior high football has been moved up to the varsity squad.

The first Lower Bucks Junior High League game for Bristol is against Neshaminy High at home on October 6. Last season, Bristol won over the Neshaminy team, 19-13.

Camera Eye Shows The Secret of Courier's New High-Speed Press

FIRST STEP is making an impression in soft cardboard of the locked up "form" of type. Howard Ashenfelter, of the Courier press crew, is shown at the roller preparing to make a mat.

MAT IS "backed up" so it will not flatten out again under pressure. Shown, right to left, are: Meinard Patterson, head of the press crew, and Mrs. Charles Beckman, Miss Elma Haefner and Mrs. Elwood Carlen, of the Courier staff.

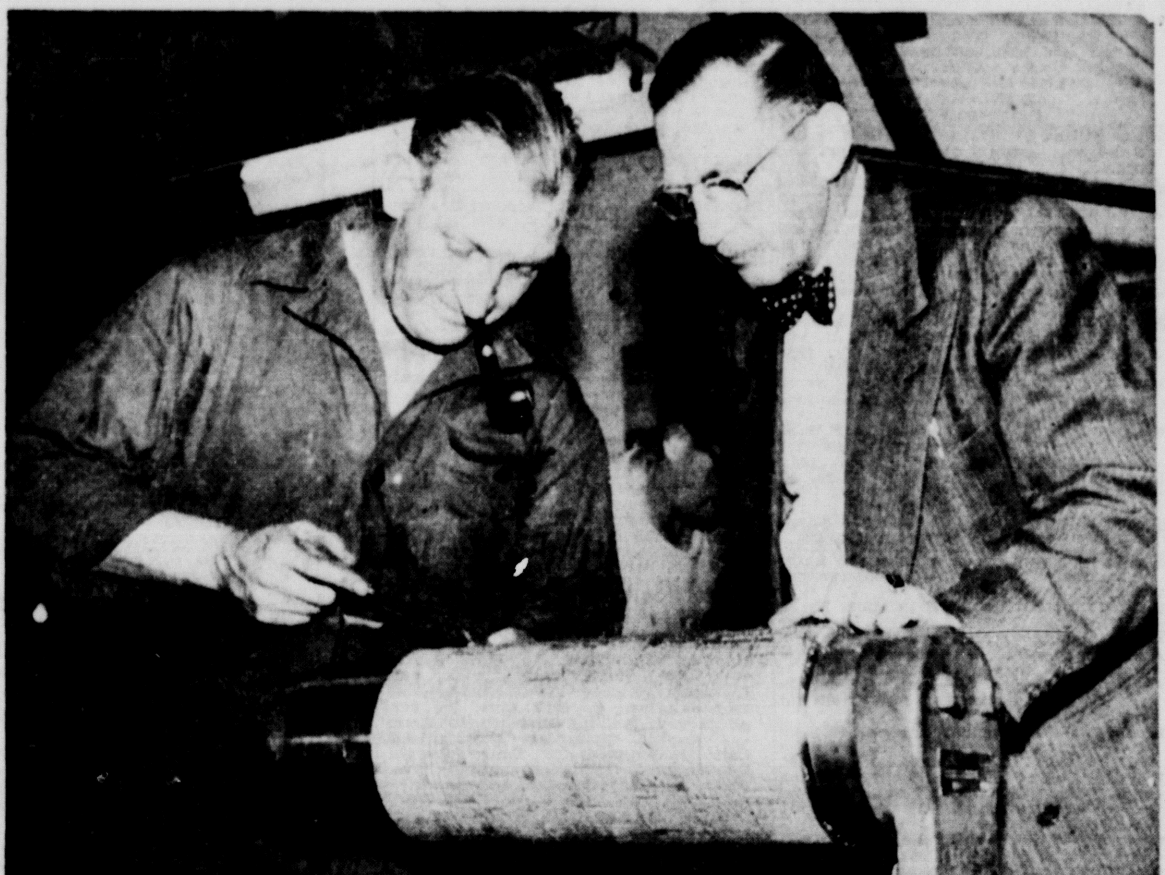

Courier Staff Photos

CHIEF PRESSMAN Patterson slips the mat in place around a cylinder next to melting pot so lead can be poured to make a tubular impression or "plate."

FRESHLY-CAST plate is removed by Howard Ashenfelter as press-foreman Patterson and Horace Freck look on. Plate must be carefully machined to fit on press.

FINISHING TOUCHES are put on plate by Freck as Courier's mechanical superintendent, Elmer F. Storms, looks on. Plate will turn at rate of 20,000 revolutions an hour.

Nina's Sex Appeal Is Just For Snobs

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24 (INS)—Actress Nina Foch admitted today that she is no ordinary movie star because her sex appeal is strictly for snobs.

Nina said: "About 1/100th of the population think I'm madly attractive but I definitely do not appeal to the lower classes. To become a true star you have to appeal in some fashion to everybody."

The blonde beauty explained that big stars like Joan Crawford, Rita Hayworth and Marilyn Monroe have sex appeal for the masses, "but I have sex appeal only for a small group."

This is an advantage to Nina who likes her privacy.

She explained: "Enough people recognize me on the street to satisfy my ego but mostly they let me alone.

No Lipstick

"If I want to be incognito all I have to do is take off my lipstick. Then nobody recognizes me."

While Nina's star may not be ascending, her bankroll is definitely growing, because, as she explains: "A good substantial actress, although not popular with the masses, is always in demand."

The blonde actress has never had any trouble finding work. She is a veteran of five Broadway shows, 32 movies and countless television programs.

Self Discipline

One facet of Nina's character that her fans seldom hear about is her spartan-like penchant for self discipline.

"I'd much rather sleep on the floor than on a bed," she said. "I need the support of the floor to sleep 'up' from."

"I slept on enough of these soft featherbeds when I was a child in Holland. It was when I came to the United States that I discovered the benefit of sleeping on a hard surface."

When she is separated from her hard-as-nails bed at home she just throws a quilt on the floor and beds down there.

"Sometimes," she laughed, "it is rather confusing to hotel maids."

Registration is open to all teachers of all churches in the area, whether or not directly affiliated with the sponsoring Council. Tuition for the six sessions is $250. Further information may be obtained from the pastors of churches in this area; or from the Rev. William Woodman of the Newport Presbyterian Church, Dean of the School, or from the Rev. E. Bert Bonte, of the Levittown Reformed Church, President of the Lower Bucks County Council of Churches.

Visual committee for the Philadelphia Council of Churches.

The third course each evening is a methods course and will be divided into sections for teachers in each age group. These will be taught by recognized leaders from various denominational groups represented in the Council of Churches:

Beginners — Mrs. Ray Salmos, Methodist;
Primaries — Miss Ruth Logan, Baptist;
Juniors — Mrs. Mary Ester McWhirter, Friends; Youth — Rev. Richard Keen, Reformed, and Adults — Rev. Rudolph Libeck, Baptist.

The food will be drawn from the vast surplus stores acquired by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) under the farm price support program, and will be paid for with the local currencies of the recipient countries.

Under the Mutual Security act of 1953 this food distribution will be carried out by the Foreign Operations Administration, (FOA), which is working closely with the State and Agriculture departments on a concrete plan.

In addition to this legislation, Congress in the last days of its 1953 session authorized the president, at his discretion, to release up to $100,000,000 worth of food abroad for famine relief.

The President as yet has not issued an executive order to determine what agency, or agencies, will administer this plan.

Still other legislation under the Mutual Security act gives the President power to use $100,000,000 to send food held by the CCC to hungry nations, the money to come out of the over-all operations of the foreign operations administration.

Progress Cited

Discussing the progress made under the section of the law authorizing distribution of up to $250,000,000 in food, Dr. D. A. Fitzgerald, deputy director for operations of the FOA, said:

U. S. Considers Plan to Hike Overseas Food

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (INS)—A Government spokesman said today that a plan was being worked out to speed the release of up to 250 million dollars worth of U. S. surplus foods to needy "friendly countries" of the world.

Three government agencies are working on the plan, based on recent legislation authorizing President Eisenhower to send 100 to 250 million dollars worth of U. S. food abroad.

The food will be drawn from the vast surplus stores acquired by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) under the farm price support program, and will be paid for with the local currencies of the recipient countries.

Under the Mutual Security act of 1953 this food distribution will be carried out by the Foreign Operations Administration, (FOA), which is working closely with the State and Agriculture departments on a concrete plan.

Progress Cited

Discussing the progress made under the section of the law authorizing distribution of up to $250,000,000 in food, Dr. D. A. Fitzgerald, deputy director for operations of the FOA, said:

"We hope that by the end of this week, or the first of next week, at the latest, we will have the views of the executive branch."

He added that the FOA hoped to begin distributing food by Nov. 1. Dr. Fitzgerald explained that efforts are being made to determine which commodities can be shipped abroad so as not to interfere with regular channels of trade.

The big problem, he said, is deciding how the U. S. will use local currencies it receives for food.

Fitzgerald said the Agriculture department advised that foodstuffs available include wheat, corn, butter, dairy products, beef and honey.

Meanwhile, in New York one of the many private relief agencies urging the release of more surplus foods for starving areas of the world expressed the hope that the president soon will exercise his new powers to permit the agencies to distribute food now being stockpiled under the farm price support program at mounting cost to the taxpayers.

State Records Show Forest Damage Doubled

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Pennsylvania recorded more than twice as much forest acreage damage from wildfires in 1952 as in the previous year.

American Forest Products Industries, in reporting on forest fires in the Keystone State, reported a total of 68,147 acres burned in 1952. This compares to 33,747 acres in 1951.

During 1952 a total of 1,555 forest fires were reported in Pennsylvania. The previous year's total was 855.

James C. McClellan, chief forester, American Forest Products Industries, said forest fire losses throughout the United States were 20 percent greater in 1952 than in 1951.

"Losses in Pennsylvania," he explained, "may be attributed largely to extremely dry conditions over the state. These conditions were responsible for Pennsylvania's worst fall forest fire season on record."

Careless smokers accounted for 461 of Pennsylvania's 1952 forest fires, while campers and picnickers who failed to use proper precautions in building and drowning campfires caused 285 forest fires. Another 271 fires were caused by careless brush and debris burners.

"Effectiveness of the forest fire fighting organizations in Pennsylvania," said Mr. McClellan, "plus the work of the Keep Green fire prevention campaign, probably saved the state from a much worse forest fire year."

The AFPI report, based on U. S. Forest Service figures, lists Pennsylvania as one of 31 states that provide organized protection on 100 percent of their woodlands.

To Unveil Old Sundial At Pennsbury Manor

The 271st anniversary of the landing of the good ship Welcome with William Penn and his followers aboard will be celebrated next month by the unveiling of a 274-year-old sundial at Pennsbury Manor on the Delaware River near Morrisville.

In the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post, Ashley Halsey, Jr., tells that the $500,000 restoration project at Penn's historic mansion had overlooked the installation of such a timepiece.

Committee Appointed

Halsey's article, "The Shrine That Rose From Rubble," explains that a committee was appointed to look into the matter of a sundial, but they did not know whether one was available, or what it might cost.

It is reported that a letter in the London Times uncovered five Britons who were willing to donate sundials of the type which might have been used by the founder of Pennsylvania.

The one selected was offered by Carr E. R. Sherrington, of Belmont, Surrey, who said his gift was an heirloom from his mother's moated country place in Suffolk. It proved to have been hand-hammered in brass by John Moss, of London, in 1679, three years before Penn set sail for America.

Circle on Square

The hours, in Roman numerals, are arranged in a circle on a square base eight inches across. The pointer, whose shadow reveals the hour, takes the form of a sea serpent within a triangle.

Halsey says that when it became evident that the sundial's readings would have to be corrected to fit its New World location, a retired Royal Navy captain, read of the need and volunteered his services.

He figured that in its American setting the dial might register as much as twenty-nine minutes fast or slow and noted the variations on a table of corrections to be put on the pedestal.

Businessmen Plan Resolution Backing Delaware Port

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 24 — The board of directors of the Morrisville Businessmen's Association has been authorized by association members to prepare a resolution supporting the establishment of port facilities in the Delaware river.

The announcement was made by E. Dillwyn Darlington, president of the association.

The action was taken after the association was urged by Arthur Dover, former port manager for Trenton and now the city's port consultant, to back the deepening of the river. Dover spoke at a meeting of the association last week.

"We understand," Darlington said, "that it is proposed that the Port of Trenton be expanded and that the port facilities would be located in Falls Township near the Victor Chemical Works. These port facilities, we are told, would handle 500,000 tons of freight a year. Dover advises that on that basis the port would be profitable."

According to Darlington, Dover said the port would return $150 for every dollar needed to finance the port.

"Morrisville would greatly benefit by additional business, brought by a thriving port and if the project is profitable we feel it should be adopted," Darlington said.

Committee Heads Named by PTA

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 24 — Eight committee chairmen for the 1953-54 school year have been named by Lester Noecker, president of the Morrisville Teachers' Association.

The chairman are Mrs. Ellen Miller, program; Frank Torok, welfare; James E. Wood, scholarship; Mrs. Marion Thomas, social; Alexander McDonald, legislative; Mrs. Dorothy Keller, public relations; Mary Broome, ethics, and Mrs. Helen Strunk, publications.

Correct Washing Needed for Acetate

NEW YORK, (INS) — Any rustling acetate taffeta petticoat or slip will retain its crisp appeal and good looks longer if you wash in the right way after every wearing.

Acetate taffeta should be plunged up and down through rich, warm soapsuds — folding it as little as possible, and never twisting, wringing, or rubbing it against itself. Pressure causes deep wrinkles which are difficult or impossible to remove.

If necessary, put the garment through a second sudsing. Smooth soiled areas over the edge of the washbowl and rub lightly with a well-soaped soft brush. Rinse in clear, lukewarm water. Then hold briefly over the washbowl or rub until dripping stops. Hang smoothly until almost dry, then press lightly on the wrong side with an iron set at "low rayon."

When ironing acetate taffeta concentrate on smoothing it rather than drying it completely. Use a very light touch — if properly washed so that there are no deep creases, this is all that will be necessary.

Slide your iron under the seams rather than pressing over them. Iron just up to a packet and then smooth the packet itself with your fingers. Don't try to press all the way into gathers under an elastic band; they'll smooth out, and fall into place when dry and on the wearer.

After ironing, hang the garment to dry thoroughly. A clip-type hanger is good for a petticoat and an ordinary hanger will do for a slip.

DON'T KID SELF

LONDON, Aug. (INS)—A British doctor claims you're only fooling yourself when you think drinking cheer you up. According to Dr. J. M. Walker of Oxford University you only think you are stimulated by alcohol because it depresses your power of self-criticism and removes your inhibitions.
